

THEMATIC BIBLE READING PLAN IN A YEAR

Introduction – Walking with God Through His Word

The Bible is not merely a book—it is God’s living voice, speaking to His people in every time and place. For those in formation, it is both a compass and a companion: a compass, because it points the way to God’s heart and His mission; a companion, because it walks with us through every joy and trial.

This thematic reading plan invites you to journey through the great story of salvation in one year, tracing how God calls, forms, and sends His people. From the dawn of creation to the new heaven and new earth, you will see how God’s love unfolds in history and continues in your own life and missionary vocation.

Our aim is not only to read the Bible, but to allow the Bible to read us—to listen deeply and respond with faith. Each week offers a focused theme with carefully chosen readings, a checklist to track your journey, and reflection questions to guide both personal prayer and community sharing.

You are encouraged to:

- Pray with the Word daily, letting it shape your thoughts, desires, and actions.
- Share the Word weekly, listening to how God speaks differently to each member of your formation community.
- Live the Word in concrete missionary acts that bring Christ to others.

As you begin, remember: this is not about speed-reading or checking boxes. It is about entering into relationship with the living God, allowing His Word to form your heart, renew your mind, and set your feet firmly on the path of mission.

“Your word is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path” (Psalm 119:105).

May this journey through Scripture be for you a year of light, guidance, and deep joy in the Lord.

1. Pray before the meeting – Ask the Holy Spirit to lead, so it's not just Bible study but a formative encounter with God.
2. Let the Word speak first – Begin by reading key passages aloud; avoid jumping into explanations immediately.
3. Encourage personal sharing – Avoid academic debates; focus on how God's Word is speaking to each person.
4. Keep missionary focus – Always ask: What does this mean for my mission and consecrated life?
5. Respect silence – Give time for reflection; not everyone will speak immediately.
6. Use cross-references – Highlight how Old and New Testament passages connect.
7. Guard against over-sharing – Keep the group safe by not forcing personal disclosures beyond comfort.
8. Encourage journaling – Suggest that formandi note insights, challenges, and resolutions after each session.
9. Close with prayer – End with thanksgiving and intercession for grace to live the Word.
10. Model by example – The formator's own engagement with Scripture will inspire formandi more than any explanation.

Conclusion – Formed by the Word for the Mission

If you have reached this point, you have walked with God through the pages of His Word for an entire year. You have listened to His call, seen His faithfulness, learned from His people's struggles, and rejoiced in His saving love revealed fully in Jesus Christ.

The Scriptures have not only told you what God has done—they have shown you who God is and who you are in Him. You have witnessed His mercy, power, and tenderness; you have heard His invitations to repentance, trust, and mission.

But this is not the end. The Bible is not a one-time project. It is the wellspring from which you will drink for the rest of your missionary life. The same Spirit who inspired these words longs to continue speaking to you—guiding your decisions, purifying your motives, and strengthening your courage.

Let the patterns of prayer, reflection, and sharing you have learned this year become part of your daily missionary rhythm. Keep your Bible close—in your room, in your chapel, and in your heart. Let it be your first counsel in doubt, your deepest comfort in sorrow, and your loudest song in joy.

Now, having been nourished by the Word, you are sent. Sent to speak hope to the hopeless, to bring light to the darkness, to proclaim with your life that Jesus Christ is Lord.

“Go into all the world and preach the Gospel to all creation” (Mark 16:15).

May the Word you have read, prayed, and lived this year be the seed that bears lasting fruit in your vocation and in the lives of all you serve.

3-YEAR THEMATIC BIBLE READING PLAN FOR FORMANDI

Introduction

Welcome to this transformative journey through God's Word — a three-year pilgrimage designed to deepen your faith, enrich your spirit, and ignite your missionary heart. As a formandus, you are stepping into a life shaped by Scripture, prayer, community, and service, rooted in the living God who calls each of us to participate in His unfolding mission.
